

Work Started On Waterworks System

Looks Like Busy Year For Grayling.

NEED NOT BE ON WELFARE TO GET JOB.

Now that warm weather is approaching the various construction projects which are planned for Grayling and vicinity should be getting started soon. It is not known definitely at this time just how much work will be carried on here, but it seems certain that a considerable dent in the unemployment problem can be made.

The National Reemployment service, conducted by the U. S. Department of Labor, is registering and re-registering unemployed men and women continuously and is offering all possible cooperation to those who hire, to the end that jobs may be found for as many as possible.

On all P. W. A. projects, such as the waterworks, Cedar Street pavement, and Au Sable bridge, it is required that the contractor secure his help thru this agency and all persons desiring the opportunity to work on these projects should register at once.

Registration may be made on Tuesday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock by interviewing Mr. Lloyd Worden who will be at the second floor of the Court house at that time.

Those who are already registered should be sure to keep their applications active by re-registering either with Mr. Worden personally or by mail to the National Reemployment Service, 242 E. Front St., Traverse City. The original registration places one on the active list for only thirty days, and should be renewed at the expiration of this period.

Contrary to the prevalent opinion, the various P. W. A. projects do not give any priority to those on the relief rolls. It is only necessary that one be unemployed and registered in order to be eligible for the job.

During the past week Augustus Funk, well contractor, completed the first test well for the new waterworks system and sunk the 8 inch casing for the second well a distance of twenty-two feet below the ground. Tests made on the test well indicate that a plentiful supply of water will be available, since the sand encountered is very apparently of the water bearing variety. The test well was driven fifty three feet below the ground and samples of sand were taken at five feet intervals and analyzed to determine the size of screens necessary for the permanent installation.

A sample of water from this well was sent to the State Department of Health for bacteriological examination and word was received from them on Tuesday that the well showed no signs whatever of contamination and was in all respects fit for drinking.

The eight inch casing in the second well will be driven thirty feet below ground this week and samples of sand obtained for an additional twenty feet, after which the casing will be driven in the first well and the screen installed. This work is subject to frequent delays while ordering screens and will probably not be completed until late in April.

Word has been received from the general contractor, L. G. Scherf of Detroit, that he will start work as soon as his contract has been approved by the Detroit office of the P. W. A. In all probability construction of foundations for the elevated tank will be under way by the latter part of next week.

When the system is finally completed Grayling will be assured of an excellent and continuous supply of water. It is planned to bring the distribution system up-to-date by means of an elevated storage tank of 100,000 gallons capacity and a complete circuit of mains with sufficient valves and appurtenances so that in case repairs are necessary to any part of the mains they can be made without stopping the supply of a large portion of the town. In the past this has caused inconvenience to nearly all users of water and we are glad that the new installation will allow us twenty-four hours use a day for 365 days in the year.

Lumberjacks-Cubs Play For City Champ.

WILL CLASH AT SCHOOL GYM FRIDAY NIGHT.

Tomorrow night in the High School gym basket ball in Grayling will have a good healthy last gasp of farewell. The occasion will be the big clash between the Grayling Cubs and the Grayling Lumberjacks.

These two teams, each with a following of many fans, have a chance to settle for this year the City Championship and also to offer further evidence as to which is the better ball club. They are playing a benefit game for the High School, the use of whose gym has given them home games in the season just past.

It ought to be a fracas worth seeing. The rival clubs haven't met in Grayling this year though they did tangle in the Roscommon independent tournament. The Cubs won a thriller. A lot of local fans followed the teams to see that game. This time they won't have to go out of town.

A preliminary is being arranged by Coach Willard Cornell of the high school which is designed to give a bit of a preview to the green and white of next season. The first game is slated to start at 7:30 and the reduced admission is 10 and 20 cents. Be sure and be on hand to see this really worth while attraction and give the high school athletics association a boost.

NOTES AND COMMENTS FROM WASHINGTON

by Congressman Roy O. Woodruff Tenth Michigan District.

In last week's letter I endeavored to point out the weaknesses of the Townsend old age pension plan. That my position on this question that the original set-up would not be workable, is, to at least some extent, concurred in by the delegation now in Washington to further the Townsend idea, is indicated by the fact that they have asked several Congressmen who have had long experience in pension matters to re-draft their plan to make its operation possible without endangering our economic structure.

Frankly, very few of us are satisfied with the administration plan which would limit Federal participation in old age pension payments to $15 per month to persons past the age of 65 years. Personally I hope to see Congress enact a law which will cause the Federal Government to match the state contribution may be. The Michigan old age pension law provides a maximum of $30 per month per person. I believe such a law could be financed without overwhelming tax burdens being thrust upon the shoulders of our poor people.

Many sins have been committed in the name of reform. Many deceptions are being practiced under NRA blue eagle in the name of recovery. For instance, the importers of the country, those people whose business it is to import foreign-made and foreign-grown products into this country in competition with American producers, operate under one of the many NRA codes. Having the right to use the blue eagle, they very promptly affix this insignia upon the foreign products when they reach American shores, and the American consumer is led to believe that when he buys these products he is buying products made by American labor or grown by the American farmer.

It seems also that contractors having contracts to manufacture various articles within the prisons of the United States also operate under a code. The blue eagle is placed upon the products, and they are sold in the open market in competition with the same class of products manufactured by free labor.

Somehow, I have always believed that the markets of this country, which are most valuable and the most desired of any market in the world, belong primarily to the law-abiding, industrious, thrifty citizens of this country. If I could have my way about it, those American markets would be preserved to these citizens, so long as they could properly supply them.

Grayling Festival

(By Mrs. W. G. Gamble, Kingstree, S. C.)
A South Carolina Woman Visits the Snow Queen

The following story is taken from the Record, published at Kingstree, South Carolina, February 21st:

It is a far cry and many a weary mile from Kingstree, S. C., a typical southern town, festooned and garlanded with spreading oaks and graceful Spanish moss, nestling on the banks of sleepy Black river, to Bay City, Michigan, where Jack Frost locks the rivers and lakes with huge thick ice, for five months out of the year. But I, who was born, reared and careased by the southern sun and have almost reached my sixth decade before realizing how beautiful and fairy like the north land could be when clothed with ice and snow.

The hundred or more miles north of Bay City among the glacial moraines and hills of Michigan lies Grayling, the St. Moritz of the Central states, where annually is celebrated a three-day Snow carnival, a winter sport, we journeyed.

We left early one morning, loaded with such accessories as sleds, skis, alpine sticks, ice skates, well bundled and wrapped for our trip to the home of the Snow Queen. Picture, if you can, rolling hills covered with a blanket of the most beautiful snow with patches of green here and there, composed of spruce, hemlock and fir. The air crystal clear and the cold so sharp it cuts one's face like a knife. Statistics are three some but the temperature was 30 degrees below zero and yet we southerners shiver when thin ice covers our ponds and lakes at home. More interesting than that, these snow hills and ice covered lakes were dotted with humanity dressed in all colors of the rainbow, green and red predominating. Thousands of individuals of both sexes from the cradle almost to the grave enjoying themselves in the lusty sports of the north land. Moving pictures show us these things but cannot convey to us the glamor and excitement of the keenness of the air, the smell of the spruce, the laughter and shouts of the young girls with glistening white teeth, that glow with the joy of living, the husky, robust men with many of the other things that go with the winter carnival.

Some of the high lights of which my friends and neighbors would be interested in are first; the toboggan slides, these slippery courses a mile long, dotted with laughing human freight, with speed of eighty miles an hour or more; bob-sled courses with the many upsets, the children on the smaller hills with their miniature sleds, the ski jumpers soaring like some peculiar bird through hundreds of feet of air, the hockey games, the skating rink, with numerous couples dancing and gliding to music, the professional skaters attractively attired in silk and furs, the acrobatic skaters, and last but not least, the crowning of the Snow Queen, the wife of King Winter, and then a throne composed of four thousand two hundred blocks of ice weighing four hundred tons, with the northern lights playing over the scene, resembling the throne seen in Hans Anderson's Fairy Tales of our childhood days. She is a typical beautiful midwestern girl, attired in flowing robes designed by Mrs. Igloo, a Russian designer, a Siberian husky as a mascot, surrounded by her subjects to enjoy the fairyland of the north. Her command was obeyed as was rightfully due an absolute monarch.

Holding in her hand the Star of the North, I, with my southern training and in spite of the keen wind and of the fact that I was among strangers, enjoyed, marveled and wondered. I was welcomed in person by the numerous individuals, including the father and mother of the Snow Queen. Hospitality after all is not the peculiar property of the south. Florida might well look to her laurels at Grayling, the home of the winter sports.

Legion Jottings

The Bugle and Drum Corps met Monday evening at the High school gym for drilling and had a real work out. The boys are now realizing that it means work to get a corps in shape to play on the streets of any city so that the people will be satisfied. The playing of bugles and drums is only a minor detail compared to the marching and maneuvers for street work. We wonder if Spike got a sale of cigarettes and cigars. What say Spike? Oh! Well they all lived through it.

Our plans on having a minstrel show are going through as soon as possible. Any ex-service man or their wife or anyone who has a little talent are urged to get in touch with Alvin LaChapelle or John Deckrow and tell them what part you want to take in one of the best minstrel shows ever shown here. We want to get started on this as soon as possible so as to have it over before "Home Coming time."

The home-coming committees are very busy these days and if the people who send in addresses of old residents who have moved away will please be sure to give their street addresses so mail will reach them.

Every week someone comes into the American Legion and you "Buddies" who have not joined better be getting a move on you. Why hold back; we have one of the most active posts in the state and have even formed a Bugle and Drum Corps and that is saying a lot for a city of this size. But Grayling Legionaires do things when they start and usually put across whatever they set out to do.

William Huddleston has joined our Bugle and Drum Corps and will do a little tooting on the side from making flies for the fisherman so if he is making a big noise at the Fly Factory don't think anything of it.

The Auxiliary enjoyed their regular social meeting Tuesday night at the hall with Mrs. Harry Sorenson and Mrs. Charles Tinker as the hostesses. Some lively pinocle games were played.

Alfred Hanson and Sam Rasmussen attended a rousing Tenth district meeting at Mt. Pleasant Monday. On the way down they picked up Comrade Jess Green of Roscommon, who also attended.

Township Elections Next Monday

Next Monday, April 1st will be election day. At that time there will be officers elected for the following state offices:

2 Justices of the supreme court.
2 Regents of the university.
Superintendent of public instruction.
Members of the state board of education.
2 members of the state board of agriculture.
Circuit court judge 34th judicial district.
Also the following township officers for each of the several townships:

Supervisor.
Clerk.
Treasurer.
Highway Commissioner.
Member of the board of review.
Justice of the peace.

Overseers of highways.
Constables.
And there will be one amendment—"Amendment with reference to the determination of tie votes and contested elections by board of state canvassers."

The state ballot will contain besides the candidates for state officers one candidate for the office of county school commissioner. But one candidate appears for this latter office—Edith M. Payne, the present incumbent, on the Republican ticket.

Contests appear in the townships Grayling, Frederic, Beaver Creek and South Branch. The office of supervisor is the principal one on the township tickets. The candidates for the office of supervisor are as follows:

Grayling—Republican, Fred Niederer; Democrat, Theodore Leslie.

Frederic—Citizens, George Horton; Peon, Lyle Dunckley.

Beaver Creek—Republican, Earl Wood; Citizens, Frank E. Love.

South Branch—Republican, Henry F. Scott; Union, Sydney Dyer.

Unopposed candidates are Alfred Hummel, Maple Forest; Edgar Carl Lovells.

A number of slip candidates are in the field in some of the townships.

A MIRACLE

By ANNE CAMPBELL

I SAW a miracle from my own door.
Spreading its glamour on my patch of sky,
Giving me hope and bringing me once more
A dream that I supposed had passed me by.

After the rain, the darkness, and the fear,
After the lightning's flash, and the tempest's death,
That rainbow seemed to shine for me alone!

It was as if God's finger wrote for me,
When you see seldom far from my home place:

Question Box By ED WYNN The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I bought a home in the country from a real estate agent who told me it was a two-story house with modern improvements. When I went to see it I discovered it didn't have any improvements and there was no second floor at all. What did the agent mean when he said it was a two-story house?

Truly yours, IMA SAP.

Answer: The agent was right in telling you it was a two-story house. As you say all the rooms were on the ground floor, that is one story, and there aren't any improvements in the house, that's the other story.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I read in the papers today about a man who was crazy about golf. While he was playing a game with his wife she talked all the time, which interfered with his game. It seems his ball landed in a bunker and he had a very difficult shot. His wife kept talking to him. He could not stand it any longer. As she was in the bunker with him he turned and hit her with the driving iron. He was arrested and sent to jail for six months. Do you think that is right?

Yours truly, IMA PUTTER.

Answer: It seems to me the reason he got six months was not because he hit his wife, but he hit his wife in a "bunker" with a "driving iron." There's the whole story in a nutshell. He used the wrong club.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a man of forty years of age. I met a woman my own age at a party last week. I took her home and on the way I told her that her teeth were like "stars." I have called her up on the telephone, but she won't talk to me. What do you think is wrong?

Truly yours, HEYM SINGLE.

Answer: You probably hit the nail on the head. You said her teeth were just like "stars" and she thinks you said that because they come out every night.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Can you give me an example that will fully describe what is meant by the saying: "There are two sides to every question?"

Yours truly, E. MCLISON.

Answer: Sure I can. Say two girls are discussing matrimony, two sides to that subject would be as follows: One girl could say: "I do not intend getting married till I am thirty years old," and the other girl could say: "I do not intend being thirty years old till I get married."

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am opening a clothing store and have been advised to take out some fire insurance. What I want to know is this: Say I had $5,000 worth of stock and say I took out $15,000 worth of insurance on Monday and had a fire on Tuesday, what would I get?

Yours truly, POLLA C. HOLDER.

Answer: You'd get ten years in jail.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Chancellor Hitler's Defiance of Treaty Provisions Alarms Europe; Drouth Threat Causes Wallace to Lift Restrictions on Spring Wheat Planting.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

Chancellor Hitler

GERMANY, having recently boldly announced that she was now possessed of a military air force in violation of the Treaty of Versailles, still more boldly declares she is no longer bound by the obligations of that pact and proposes to build up an army of about 450,000 men, comprising 12 corps of three divisions each. This was the decision of the cabinet, which decreed compulsory military training throughout the Reich.

The exact number of men in the army will be determined by a law to be enacted later.

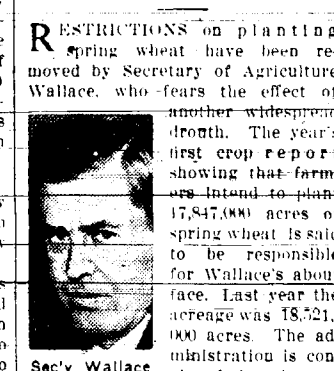

This was Chancellor Hitler's reply to the action of France's chamber of deputies in accepting Premier Llandin's plan to increase the term of conscript service in the French army to 18 months and subsequently to two years. Germany considered that France was "denying the last blow to disarmament," and Hitler, rushing to Berlin from Berchtesgaden, directed the action of the cabinet and issued to the German nation a rousing appeal for full support. He declared that the failure of other nations to reduce armament as called for in the Versailles treaty had released Germany from all treaty obligations, and that while the Reich had only peaceful intentions, it must re-arm to protect its territorial integrity and maintain the respect of the world as a co-guarantor of European peace.

France is in no mood to take Hitler's defiance "lying down." An appeal was sent to the League of Nations to convene an extraordinary council to deal with Germany's violation of the Versailles pact. The note hinted at the possibilities of economic sanctions (penalties) against Germany which might result in a boycott. An attempt is being made to force Britain into an alliance with France, and the mission of Sir John Simon, British foreign minister, to bring Germany back into the community of European nations is regarded as seriously compromised. France and Italy insist that Simon go to Berlin as spokesman of the three powers, and not as the representative of Britain alone. Premier Mussolini is said to be backing France, and is alleged to be the prime mover in a scheme to revise the pre-war policy of enclosing Germany with a ring of steel. President Roosevelt expressed his hope that his "good neighbor" policy might be extended to Europe as a basis for peaceful settlement of the tense situation. Just how the President expects to prevail upon those traditional enemies to become "good neighbors" was not fully explained. He declined to say whether this government will send a note to Germany protesting abrogation of military provisions of the separate treaty with this country. Although the United States is not a signatory to the Versailles pact, the separate peace treaty negotiated with Germany includes the military clauses of the Versailles treaty. Many people in this country feel that United States intervention in the European dispute is neither necessary nor advisable.

Gov. MARTIN L. DAVEY of Ohio, charged by Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins with "corruption" in Ohio relief, went before the state senate and demanded a thorough investigation. He defied Hopkins to come to Ohio for trial on a warrant he had secured charging Hopkins with criminal libel. Hopkins had alleged in a letter that he has proof of "corruption" of relief administration in Ohio including soliciting of funds for campaign purposes from firms that sold relief materials. Hopkins, through C. C. Stillman, FERA regional officer, has taken over administration of Ohio relief. Department of Justice attorneys in Washington declare they stand ready to defend Hopkins, but that there was no indication that Hopkins would go to Ohio, although he may change his mind. The spectacular blowup is said to have had its inception in the 1934 political campaign. Davey made campaign speeches charging that Ohio relief was mismanaged, and particularly aimed his barbs at Cleveland. This rked Cleveland leaders since relief there had been administered through a non-political group, which later became the official Cuyahoga county relief administration. Hopkins often took note of the fact that Cleveland's relief committee was "one of the best in the country." Later Davey pledged himself not to touch the Cleveland organization, but he is said to have ousted several members, and repeated old charges. Cleveland leaders took the fight to Washington.

Ohio Democrats stand firmly behind Davey. The Democratic delegation to the Ohio legislature appealed to President Roosevelt "to right the wrong which had been done our governor" and Francis W. Poulson, Democratic state chairman, summoned to appear before the grand jury, delivered a scathing attack on Hopkins. Poulson charged that Republicans in high government offices "have betrayed the President," and named Hopkins as "one who could be expected to tear down the Democratic party."

CLARENCE DARROW, foe of NRA, and author of the famous report which attacked NRA more than a year ago, assailed the administration's economic theories, including the national recovery act, in his testimony before the senate finance committee. The famous lawyer whose sharp speech and fiery courtroom tactics have made him famous, denounced NRA as playing into the hands of big business, to the destruction of the "little fellow." He argued that NRA attacked the problem from the wrong angle and that the real trouble lay in faulty distribution thus assailing the theory of scarcity. Darrow went aside statements that NRA had helped organized labor, reduced unemployment and abolished child labor, with an assertion that it would have happened anyway. "The panic put an end to child labor," he said. "There wasn't any room for it while fathers and mothers were out of work." "There is no question that small business has suffered under the NRA," Darrow continued. "It has suffered more than it would have suffered otherwise."

Sec'y Wallace

RESTRICTIONS on planting spring wheat have been removed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, who fears the effect of another widespread drouth. The year's first crop report showing that farmers intend to plant 17,847,000 acres of spring wheat is said to be responsible for Wallace's about face. Last year the acreage was 18,321,000 acres. The administration is convinced that the government and farmers have a duty to protect consumers against a wheat shortage, he said. Farmers will get an additional 300,000 to 2,300,000 acres as a result of the new order, and will harvest between one and thirty million bushels more, Wallace estimates. Spring wheat normally constitutes about one-fourth of the nation's crop. He denied that the European situation pointing to a possibility of increased sales had anything to do with the new decision. Farmers under contract who plant their full spring wheat acreage will receive full benefit payments, but in return will be required to agree to reduce production in 1936 by the amount asked in next year's contract plus the amount they would have reduced this year. There is no indication that the corn acreage control program for 1935 will be altered.

BY A vote of 202 to 191, the house voted to substitute the Patman currency expansion bill for payment of the soldiers' bonus for the "sound money" plan of Representative Vinson. A bolterous house thus defied President Roosevelt's warning that he will veto immediate payment of the adjusted compensation certificates. The administration is counting on the senate sustaining the veto.

DONALD R. RICHBERG was named by the President to lead a reorganized NRA board, taking the place of S. Clay Williams, resigned. At the same time the President increased the group governing the Blue Eagle agency from five to seven. A White House statement emphasized the change was made to accelerate the drive to push extension of the NRA through congress.

THE federal tree planting project will get under way in North Dakota on April 15. The project has already been started in other states, but the major development of the program will be centered in North Dakota this year. The state has been assigned a quota of 800,000 trees for a belt 35 miles long. This is only a part of the operations which envisage a 100-mile wide belt of trees extending from near the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico. The work started March 1 in Texas and Oklahoma and March 15 in Kansas. Nebraska and South Dakota projects will be started at the same time as that in North Dakota.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is looking ahead to 1938. Authoritative word has reached the Capital that he wants all controversial administration legislation cleared away at this session, so that congress can meet for a short and harmonious session prior to the 1938 Presidential campaign. Besides the relief bill, Mr. Roosevelt is said to be especially anxious to have congress pass his social security program; utility holding company legislation; a bill continuing NRA for two years; transportation regulation coordination; banking legislation; ship subsidy and increase in the capital of the Home Owners Loan corporation. If this can be cleared from the calendar, it may prevent any serious party squabbles that might interfere with plans to bring about Roosevelt's re-election. The White House is seriously concerned over rumors that congress may scrap a good part of the administration's controversial legislation.

MUSSOLINI'S answer to the latest note on the Abyssinian situation postpones approval of the proposal that differences be decided by an international commission on conciliations "at least until the possibility of direct negotiations has been proved." Il Duce made a counter proposal suggesting that the Italian minister to Abyssinia and the Ethiopian foreign minister get together for a series of personal conferences, to cover all the data, and attempt to settle the dispute without the necessity of conciliation under the direction of the League of Nations. Direct negotiations are said to have the approval of both the French and British governments.

SPRING arrived in the West with a blinding dust storm which shrouded the country from eastern New Mexico to the Great Lakes. Powdered soil whipped up from the drouth-scorched prairies hid the sun, and beat relentlessly upon the senses. A dozen deaths were reported, due to suffocations, dust-induced pneumonia and traffic accidents. Freight trains were rolled to sidings, and passenger trains crept along on slow orders. Schools were closed in a number of communities in western states. Wheat prices jumped from 2 to 3 1/2 cents a bushel as winds cut into the dry Southwest, and Governor Landon of Kansas appealed to President Roosevelt for aid.

PLANS to reduce American money to a single class—possibly federal reserve notes—are being considered by the administration, thus simplifying the nation's monetary structure and making it easier to control. Before this could be established it is necessary to make widespread changes in existing laws, and this will undoubtedly be undertaken when more immediate stages of the recovery drive are completed. According to a high government official, one class of money must be established in order that the government may effectively control issuance of money. Under this plan treasury notes and United States notes would be retired. The silver certificates backed by bullion now held in the treasury might be withdrawn from circulation and transferred to the federal reserve banks as was done with the gold certificates.

COMPROMISE and White House pressure brought about the defeat of the McCarran "prevailing wage" amendment to the work relief bill in the senate, and administration leaders were confident that the measure would be laid before the President for signature within a few days. The deadlock over the amendment was broken when Senator Richard B. Russell, Jr., of Georgia, proposed a substitute which leaves the President free to pay "security wages," officially estimated at $50 a month, provided they do not adversely affect the wage scale in private industry; and providing that the prevailing wage must be paid on all permanent federal building projects. This way out, which had been approved by the White House, was accepted by the senate by a vote of 83 to 2, after the McCarran amendment had been defeated, 50 to 38. The two votes against the compromise were cast by Metcalf of Rhode Island and Hale of Maine, both Republicans. Before the vote on the McCarran amendment was taken Senator Glass announced he was authorized to say that if it prevailed President Roosevelt would veto the measure.

Senate action finally developed into a race to pass the measure before Huey Long returned from Louisiana. Administration forces defeated three attempts to slash the bill, and overrode protests of old line Democrats that the bill imperiled the nation's credit. Senator Glass, chairman of the appropriations committee in charge of the bill, solemnly asserted: "I stand on my prediction that this tremendous appropriation will impair the credit of the United States."

Senator Tydings of Maryland described the bill as the "grandest pork barrel ever to come before congress."

THOUSANDS SEE TOURIST AND RESORT DISPLAY

Thousands of Michigan residents are being given a convincing reason why they should select the home state for their summer vacation as the Michigan Tourist and Resort Commission displays its attractive booth at the Little World's Fair in Detroit this week.

Located at a strategic point just inside the Cass Avenue entrance, the booth is a popular "first stopping place" for the hundreds of thousands that swarm Convention Hall for the Exposition.

More than two hundred thousand individual pieces of literature were distributed at the booth the first day of the show, a continual throng milling in and out of the display from morning opening to evening closing.

Its background made of knotty pine, the display was designed by Edward Dreier, publicity director of the Michigan Tourist and Resort Association and the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau. The booth is fifty feet long and ten feet deep. It houses four batteries of illuminated, colored pictures, depicting the tourist and resort lure of the state. It was not uncommon the first few days of the show to hear Michiganders, unschooled in their state's attractions, exclaim, "I never realized Michigan is so beautiful."

A Bobcat from the private collection of Kiki Cuyler, Chicago Cubs outfielder, who spends his winters in Harrisville, is being displayed along with a red fox mount, also from the Huron Shore community. Mounted fish, beaver pelts, deer heads and countless pictorials make up the bulk of the display.

Fresh fish, shipped daily from Great Lakes communities and displayed in a refrigerator, prove a popular attraction.

Motion pictures are shown continuously in a built-in theatre. So great have the movie crowds become, on several occasions it has been necessary to shut off the machines to allow visitors to pass down the gaily decorated avenues.

The East Michigan Tourist Association is represented by Ben G. Wright, publicity director of the organization.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

WHAT DANNY MEADOW MOUSE DID

TO GRANDFATHER FROG, watching from the safety of the Smiling Pool, it seemed that Danny Meadow Mouse hadn't the least chance in the world. There he was on the bank of the Smiling Pool with water in front of him and Reddy Fox creeping up right behind him. To try to run back would be to run right into Reddy's mouth. There wasn't a place for Danny to hide.

"I told Danny he was foolish to come over here," muttered Grandfather Frog.

So Danny Swam With All His Might for the Other Bank of the Smiling Pool.

the frog. "I'm rather fond of the little fellow, and I hate to think that I shall never see him again."

Grandfather Frog saw Reddy start to spring on Danny Meadow Mouse and closed his big, goggle eyes so that he would not see the dreadful end of Danny. He expected to hear Danny's last despairing squeak, but instead he heard a splash. Grandfather Frog's big goggle eyes flew open, and then he gave a grunt of surprise. On the bank where Danny had been a second before was Reddy Fox, and if ever there was an angry and disappointed fox, that one was Reddy. And there in the Smiling Pool itself was Danny Meadow Mouse swimming straight out toward the middle as if he were quite as much at home in the water as his big cousin Jerry Muskrat himself.

From the way he was headed it was quite clear that Danny intended to swim across the Smiling Pool to the other bank. "Chugurumi!" exclaimed Grandfather Frog. "Chugurumi! Bravo, Danny Meadow Mouse! Bravo!"

Danny made no reply. He was too busy. He couldn't waste his breath talking. Besides, he was afraid he would swallow some water and choke. So he kept right on swimming as hard as ever he could. The truth is, Danny was in a hurry to reach the other bank. While he wasn't afraid of the water, he was afraid of certain folks who live in the water. He knew that Snapper, the great big Snapping Turtle lives in the Smiling Pool, and that nothing would make him happier than a fat meadow mouse for his dinner. Then Danny couldn't help but think of Billy Mink. If Billy Mink should happen along, well, Danny didn't like to think of it. You see, Billy Mink is also fond of fat meadow mice.

So Danny swam with all his might for the other bank of the Smiling Pool. There were some little holes in that bank where he would feel quite safe. As for Reddy Fox, he looked both foolish and angry. You see, Reddy had felt absolutely sure of that Meadow Mouse dinner. As it was he wouldn't even get a frog dinner, for, at the warning of Redding the Blackbird, all the young frogs along the edge of the Smiling Pool had dived for safety.

Science Wars On Mud Roads

At top, an ordinary dirt road during a spring thaw. Below, a view on the same day of a gravel road stabilized with binder soil and calcium chloride. Insert, a research engineer making soil tests studying the proportions of sand, gravel and clay needed to produce a hard surface.

WHAT can be accomplished by applying the sciences of soil physics to road construction is graphically portrayed in the two views of Michigan roads above. Both pictures were photographed the same day under adverse weather conditions, following an all night rain and two days of thawing weather. The ordinary dirt road was almost impassable. The calcium chloride stabilized road presented a smooth level surface. Many roads of the latter type have been constructed in the past two years, using principles developed by the United States Bureau of Public Roads and other research engineers. By using proper proportions of sand, clay and gravel, with calcium chloride to provide the necessary moisture for cohesion, a durable, hard surfaced highway is produced. Because of the low cost of construction and maintenance, highway engineers predict this new type of surface will give great impetus to the improvement of farm-to-market roads.
